GENALOG QUALITY POLICY

Genalog Limited is dedicated and committed to a Management System to control the stockholding and distribution of electronic and electro-mechanical components and cable, and the production of cable assemblies and value-added items to customer specifications. To achieve this objective, the company recognises the need to have planned effective management working to a management system that meet the criteria set out in ISO9001.

Within the management system all personnel in the organisation shall endeavour to ensure that the company's services are: -

i. Fit for purpose for which they are intended.
ii. Safe in the use for which they were intended.

Genalog Limited shall at all times comply with statutory and regulatory requirements with specific responsibility towards Health & Safety.

It is the specific responsibility of the top management to ensure a programme of continual improvement by setting company objectives and ensuring the resources are available for completing, analysing and reviewing these objectives and all other aspects of the management system.

All procedures referenced in the management system manual and detailed in the supplementary process maps have been approved by a Director. It is the express responsibility of all senior staff to ensure that all Genalog Limited personnel are aware of, and work to, the management system.
